Introduction

Positioning tells you where something is. It is a capability, not a single technology.

Navigation adds movement and direction to that position over time.

Second part

Timing is needed by many systems that never navigate at all.

Resilience means a system keeps working when signals are degraded.

Third part

Assurance gives evidence that the system is fit for purpose.